The ability to go at my own pace combined with the one on one meetings through Zoom is like a good one two punch. It increases my ability to express myself through music.

Pha Roah – Guitar Instructor Pha Roah, undoubtedly is the best guitar instructor that I've come across. I started learning to play the guitar in my mid 60's and I've had two other instructors prior to my meeting with Pha Roah. I came across home while searching on-line at www.tsma.fun for a new instructor. My first contact with him was by phone, and after a brief conversation, I immediately felt that he was the right instructor for me. Although I felt this way, I still wanted to meet with him in person to satisfy my curiosity about his knowledge and experience of guitars, playing/teaching of guitars, and music in general. ... Our first meeting in person lasted for well over an hour, unlike my first meeting with my other two previous instructors which lasted just 15 – 20 minutes. After that meeting it became apparent that he was going to be my new instructor. I was very confident about his ability and trusted him - no regrets!!!

Pha Roah's theoretical, practical and technical knowledge, together with his experience in music, more so in the art of play the guitar and his patience in teaching makes him a great instructor. He is passionate about guitars and very enthusiastic about sharing his knowledge of playing the guitar. Pha Roah has the right approach and is very methodical in the way he teaches. He does not limit his students to one type of music, but expose his students to a variety of guitar music like jazz, funk, rock, classic, blues, reggae etc. This is great because it gives students like me the confidence to be able to fit into a variety of music groups.
As an instructor, Pha Roah communicates in a clear and concise manner, sets attainable goals, keeps track of skill development and progress, and provides weekly feedbacks. He guides his student along the path of playing, listening/hearing and proper timing.

These qualities put together makes him an outstanding instructor.

I have an autistic child with very limited non-verbal communication skills. However, she has an incredible love and joy for music. Her disability has been a huge factor in finding her a piano instructor, who could teach her. I was turned down numerous times by several teachers after only the first session. When I contacted Timple Studio Music Academy, I just wanted to find someone who was willing to try and teach my daughter. I was bracing myself for another rejection. However, Mr. Pha Roah matched my daughter with Mr. Granger who has specialized in music therapy for over 20 years as a piano teacher. Mr. Granger bypassed her limitations and understood that the traditional teaching methods would not apply to her. My daughter now has since been able to learn to play piano using her hearing and a special system of notes, numbers, and finger combinations that Mr. Granger created for her. My daughter played “Happy Birthday” for her father in the presence of our entire family, which brought all of us into tears of joy. I am so grateful that I found Timple Studio Music Academy.

How caring understanding and in tune the director is with his clients be it young or old. He has a technique which he applies to his clients that keeps them focused and learning and wanting to learn more all the time. He is absolutely the best at what he does.

Mr green really was a god send. I was going through a really tough time in my life with family and friends. And music has always been my passion, but I never really knew where to start, or which direction I wanted to go in. Mr green worked with my schedule, so I could get the most out of my lessons, each one interesting and easy to follow, working on the skill level I was at , as well as to improve, and discover new avenues of music. Now I play the guitar with confidence!
And couldnt be happier. 10/10 definitely recommend, and will definitely be back for more lessons! ☺

My experience, as a parent who has a child in the Timple Studio Music Academy has been exceptionally positive. The academy provides expert guidance from passionate instructors like Mr. Pharoah who serve as mentors, tailoring lessons to individual goals and interests. Utilizing engaging learning tools, they create interactive experiences that make learning fun and effective. Constructive feedback is delivered with care, fostering a nurturing environment that encourages growth and confidence. Above all, the infectious passion for music at Timple Studio inspires students to explore, create, and fully immerse themselves in the world of music. It’s an extraordinary journey of self-discovery and musical enrichment that I highly recommend to anyone ready to unlock their musical potential.
